Meteorological Situation

Light winds and cloudy conditions persist until tomorrow. Then, conditions will be a bit windier with frontal passages bringing precipitation. From Wednesday, a Deep Low approaching from Greenland is expected to induce a strong N-ly wind flow over Orkney Islands with associated showers. The wind field is strongest on the night of Wednesday to Thursday. Rather unsettled conditions are forecast to persist into the weekend and probably well afterwards. Local conditions next 72 hrs: Wind: W-ly, veering to NW, light increasing to strong breeze on 12 November (risk of near gale). Sea temperature: 11-12C.
